Serious and Persistent Adult Offenders: Identifying Developmental Pathways, Risk Factors, Warning Signs, and Intervention/Treatment Strategies

Presenter(s): Kostas Katsavdakis, Ph.D., ABPP

Date: Friday, October 23, 2020

Time: 8:30am - 4:00pm CST

6.0 CEUs

Training Description

This presentation will focus on reviewing standards of practice for the assessment and treatment of adult serious and persistent offenders. This will include a discussion of relevant ethical, cultural and gender considerations. We will explore various developmental pathways across offender type and an overview of relevant assessment tools helping with the determination of risk and identification of potential warning signs. We will briefly review scoring criteria and application of risk instruments (e.g., Historical Clinical Risk-20 v3, Stalking Risk Profile, Spousal Assault Risk Assessment) applicable across clinical and forensic settings. The type of offenders covered will include sexual and non-sexual, intimate partner violence, stalking, homicide as well as offenders with psychopathic characteristics. We will end with a review of relevant recidivism base rates and best practices treatment programs, including Risk-Needs-Responsivity and Good Lives Model.

Training Objectives

1. Examine developmental pathways or causes of persistent and serious adult offenders
2. Review standards of practice in the assessment of adult serious offenders
3. Review relevant assessment instruments applicable in forensic and clinical settings
4. Examine relevant warning signs for potential escalating violence
5. Review of cultural and gender differences among offenders
6. Explore relevant base rates and applicable treatment modalities
